General Description of the Purkeville Hydropathic Institute General Bearription of the Parkeville Hydropathic Institute.
The main building is three stories high, standing back from the street about one hundred feet, with a semicircular grass plot in front, and contains thirty to forty rooms. The grounds around the house are tasteadily laid out with walks and planted with trees, shrube, &c. On the left of the entrance to these grounds is a cottage containing four rooms, used by male patients as a bathing house, with every convenience for "packing," bathing, &c.; on the right of the entrance, about two hundred feet distant, stands a similar cottage, used by the ladies for similar purposes.

In the rear of the Institute, at the distance of one hundred feet, are three other cottages, some eighty feet apart. One of these is the laundry, with a hydrant at the door; the other two are occupied by the servants.

The hydrant water is introduced into these cottages as well as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground.

THE WATER WORKS

Consist of a circular stone building, standing on the brow of a hill, surmounted by a large codar reservoir containing five hundred barrels, brought from a never-failing ppring of pure cold water in the side of the hill, by "a hydraulic ram." a self-acting machine of cast iron, that is kept constantly going, night and day, by the descent of the water from the spring. The surplus water is carried from the reservoir to a fountain in the water-works yard, surrounded by weeping stillows. In the first story of the water works is a circular room, containing the douche bath, which is a stream falling from a height of about thirty feet, and can be varied in size from half an inch to an inch and a half in diameter. Adjoining the douche room is a dressday room, with marble tables, &c.; the rising douche (for the cure of piles, &c.) is one of the most complete contrivances of the kind, being entirely under the control of the patient using the same.

There are many other appliances, which can be better understood by a personal examination.

In which the editor has treated not only of the historical events, but also of the manners, customs, religion, literature, and domestic habits of the people of those immense empires.

The embellishments are about two hundred, and of the first order, illustrating whatever is peculiar to the inhabitants, regarding their dress, domestic occupations, their mode of agriculture, commercial pursuits, arts, &c. They are accurate, and each one has been made expressly for the work.

price, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited.

SEARS' PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possesed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many citizens to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the domestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

OUR PLAN.—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, towns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending $25 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale cash prices.

Enterprising and active men of respectability and good address, would do well to engage in the sale of the above volumes; and all postmasters, clergymen, book pedlars and newspaper agents, are respectfully requested to act as our agents. A handsome remuneration allowed to all who engage in their sale. For particulars address, post

In consequence of the great number of complaints which have for a long time been made by Emigrants, of fraudisommitted upon them in the seading of money to their friends in Treland, and to aid and protect the Emigrant, the Irish Emigrant Society established a fund, deposited in the Bank of Ireland, upon which they draw drafts, payable at sight, at any of the branches of the Bank. the sum they wish forwards, with the planity which direction to whom and where it is to be paid, will have the same remitted.

There is a great advantage in purchasing the Society's drafts—that the Bank has a branch in each of the principal towns in Ireland, and thus the losses by discount, and otherwise, are avoided.

The Society keeps an office at No. 22 Spruce street, to which Emigrants can apply to obtain situations for which they are fitted.

Orders from employers in the country, stating the services required, the wages, and the cheapest modes of conveyance, and giving a respectable reference, will meet with prompt attention.

The Society will be thankful for all circumstantial and early information of any fraud, imposition, or outrage committed on Emigrants, and will endeavor speedily to apply a remedy.

AMERICAN TELEGRAPH

SABBATH AT THE POST OFFICE.

To the Editors of the American Telegraph. GENTLEMEN: The anti-Sunday-mail party in the United States have thus far prevailed to but a very limited extent; but each point gained is a triumph, since there is no backward marches n these things.

I would now direct attention to what I regard as the next most appropriate point of attack. The Washington city post office, in conformity with the laws of the country—but I believe in defiance of the conscientious convictions of some of the officers engaged—is open for the transaction of business on Sunday. This can only be remedied by the law-makers of the nation; yet the evil it produces should be suppressed rather than magnified by individuals. Necessity is offered as a plea for the custom, but public functionaries and citizens appear desirous of amplifying this necessity. At the approach of the hour of delivery, crowds assemble around the office, and an ostentation is made by the messengers of public functionaries writes thus: of our Government, foreign ambassadors, &c., such as is unknown on the other days of the week. Labelled satchels are displayed, blooded perses are galloped, and a fussy excitement rotten up by the important couriers, which othing but the desire of attracting attention and admiration could induce.

All this is wrong, and so far wrong that, if he personages who cause it persist in their practices, it would be well to name them in orint, and let them answer to "the sovereigns," is the people are often contemptuously yet truly OBSERVER. called.

THE TIMELY WARNING. BY A SUFFERER.

"In a moment I found myself a prisoner in my own room. I thought, for a moment, I would fling myself from the open window, and dash my brains out, but I felt afraid to die. I was not penitent. At times my heart was sub-dued, but my stubborn pride rose in an instant, and bade me not to yield. The pale face of my mother haunted me. I flung myself on the bed, and fell asleep. I awoke at midnight, stiffened by the damp night air, and terrified with frightful dreams. I would have sough my mother at that moment, for I trembled with my mother at that moment, for I trembled with fear, but my door was fast. With the daylight my terrors were dissipated, and I became bold in resisting all good impulses. The servant brought my meals, but I did not taste them. I thought the day would never end. Just at twilight I heard a light footstep approach the door. It was my sister, who called me by name.

""What may I tell mother from you?" she asked

" ' Nothing,' I replied.

"'Oh, Alfred, for my sake, for all our sakes say that you are sorry. She longs to forgive "'I won't be driven to school against my will, said L

"Another footstep, slower and feebler than my sister's, disturbed me. A voice called me by name. It was my mother's. 'Alfred, my son, shall I come in? Are you sorry for what you have done?' she asked.

"I cannot tell what influence, operating at that moment, made me speak adverse to my feelings. The gentle voice of my mother, which thrilled through me, melted the ice from my bdurated heart, and I longed to throw mysel on her neck, but I did not. No, my boy, I did not. But my words gave me the lie to my heart, when I said I was not sorry. I heard her with-draw. I heard her groan. I longed to call her back, but I did not

"I was awakened from an uneasy slumber by hearing my name called loudly, and my sister stood beside me. 'Get up, Alfred. O'don't wait a minute! Get up, and come with me Mother is dying!' I thought I was yet dreaming, but I got up mechanically, and followed my sister. On the bed, pale and cold as marble, lay my mother. She had not undressed She had thrown herself on the bed to rest arising to go again to me, she was seized with a palpitation of the heart, and was born senseto her room.

"I cannot tell you my agony as I looked ipon her; my remorse ten times more bitter rom the thought that she would never know it. I believed myself to be her murderer. I ell on the bed beside her. I could not weep. My heart burned in my bosom; my brain is all on fire. My sister threw her arms around me, and wept in silence. Suddenly we saw a slight notion of my mother's hand; her eyes unclosed She recovered consciousness, but not speech. She looked at me, and moved her lips. I could not understand her words. 'Mother, mother! I shricked, 'say only that you forgive me.' She could not say it with her lips, but her hand pressed mine. She smiled upon me, and lifting her thin white hands, she clasped my ow within them, and cast her eyes upward, n my knees beside her. She moved her lips in prayer, and thus she died. I remained still kneeling beside that dear form, till my gentle sister removed me. She comforted me, for she knew the heavy load of sorrow at my heart; heavier than grief for the loss of a mother, for it was a load of sorrow for sin. The joy of youth had left me forever.

"My son, the suffering such memories awaken must continue as long as life. God is merciful; but remorse for past misdeeds is a canker-worm in the heart, that preys upon it

My father ceased speaking, and buried his ace in his hands. I saw and felt the bearing his narrative had upon my character and conduct. I have never forgotten it. Boys who spurn a mother's control, who are ashamed to own that they are wrong, who think it manly to resist her authority or yield to her influence, beware! Lay not up for yourselves bitter mem-ories for your future years.

For the American Telegraph. STANZAS.

Oh! couldst thou know one half the love.
This heart hath learned untaught for thee As sun-beams on the tranquil sea. At night, while lay the world in sleep, While stars are watching for the day, Thine image comes, with soothing power, To cheer life's weary way.

It may seem but a youthful theme That I and fancy rove at even,
But thy sweet image haunts my soul,
And every dream of thee is heaven.
But had this earth still greater charms,
Ten thousand times more fair, less vain,
Fond memory, faithful to her trust, Would guide my soul to thee again.

THE PROGRESS OF LAW REFORM. The reformed code of Missouri, our readers may remember, was passed shortly after ours, and is almost an exact transcript of it. It en-

"Our Legislature adjourned on the morning of the 3d instant. The code is popular, far be-yond my expectations, or the expectations, I believe, of any of its original friends. Although the Legislature passed nearly seven hundred acts and resolutions, leaving few subjects or acts untouched, yet there was not even one syl-lable of the code unchanged. Numbers of memlable of the code unchanged. Numbers of members, judges, and lawyers, who were opposed to it at first, are now very favorable to it; and the people are, I think, almost unanimously favorable. Even those not very favorable expressed themselves opposed to any hasty or crude amendments, and showed a very liberal spirit. This is all very singular when we consider the bitter hostility with which it was at first received, and the opinion expressed that the system extending all over the United States and to England. "The code of practice of Kentucky, lately reported by the commissioners of that State, and which is also copied mainly from ours, has just been passed by their Legislature, as we perceive from an article in the Frankfort Comnonwealth.

"The Legislature of Iowa has lately adjourned, having passed a code which adopts the greater part of ours. Thus there are al-ready six States in which our code is the law: New York, Missouri, Mississippi, California Kentucky, and Iowa.

"Meanwhile, the progress of opinion in ou own State is strong and decided. The open and vehement opposition which the code en-countered at its beginning has dwindled to a half-subdued murmur, and a dissent scarcely espectable."-N. Y. Evening Post.

DEAF, DUMB, AND BLIND INSTITUTION .- We learn, from the Staunton Speciator, that the Virginia Institution for the Deaf, and the Dumb, and the Blind, located in Staunton, has been in operation a little over eleven years, and its beneficiaries number one hundred and ninety-four. Sixty-one deaf and dumb, and thirty-two blind, are pupils at the present time. Besides the regular education imparted, a knowledge of various trades, such as shoemaking, carpentry, book-binding, brush-making, mattress-making, "I made no reply to this. My feelings were and chair-making, is taught. We have seen specimens of work in the way of brush-making, d consider them worthy of an where such articles are made. The shops not only defray their own expenses, but yield a small revenue. All who go through a complete course of instruction are rendered capable of supporting themselves in the world.

The expenses of the institution for the vea ending the 3d of September, 1850, were twentytwo thousand eight hundred and six dollars and twenty-one cents.

SAN FRANCISCO .- This remarkable city has now a population of more than 35,000, with 107 miles of street laid out, and sustains seven daily papers. The number of arrivals of steamer and sail-vessels from foreign ports during 1850 was 1,743, and the number cleared was 1,461; making the arrivals and clearances about half as numerous as those of New York, and much more numerous than any other port in the Union. The total value of the merchandise received from foreign and domestic ports from November 21, 1849, to September 30, 1850, was $4,155,257 75. The amount of gold shipped during 1850, is supposed to be $42,000,000. There are now eleven steamers regularly traversing the Pacific, in addition to five others in the Panama and Oregon trade. There are also forty-seven steamers engaged on the river trade, and 270 other craft of various kinds navigating the river and bay.

THE INSANE.-The Superintendent of the Hospital for the Insane at Indianapolis, in a late report upon the condition of the institution, expresses the opinion, from his own oba cause of degeneracy of both mind and body subject. The Superintendent also states in his report that, during the past year, more than ne member of the same family have become insane. There are in the hospital at this time two sisters from one family, and a brother and a sister from another. Also, as is rarely the show an increase over the corresponding quarters, a husband and wife in the institution as case, a husband and wife in the institution as patients; but neither of the last-mentioned cases suffer from hereditary taint.

A LADY DOWN ON THE SECRETARY OF STATE. Mrs. Sarah Graffam, a widow lady of Maine, publishes a card, thanking a number of gentlemen in Maine and Washington, for having assisted her in going to Cuba and procuring the release by the Spanish government of her son one of the Contoy prisoners. She particularly invokes the blessing of Heaven upon President Fillmore, Acting Secretary Derrick, and Messrs. Hamblin and Sawtelle; but coming to Daniel Webster she says: "As for Mr. Daniel Webster, who has the honor to be Secretary of State, I can say nothing, either of his kindness or sympathy to me, for I should blush to state the truth as it stands; suffice it to say, if he remains ment than the last war with Great Britain. The in office, may God give him a new heart, as he did Nebuchadnezzar when he was transformed from a beast back to the capacity of a man."

ALEXANDRIA. - Messrs. Lambert & McKenzie will sell several hundred hogsheads of molasses on Wednesday next.

WASHINGTON INCIDENTS.

A MARITAL DIFFICULTY.

A white woman, (whose name we have not learned,) aged about thirty-five years, residing on 9th street, between N and O, applied to Dr. Bogan for relief, under very pressing circumstances, the other day. She had given her husband some rather sharp words-or words that appeared to him to have cutting edges to themand in attempting to knock her over gently, as an offended husband of course has a right to do, that gentleman was unfortunate enough to break one side of her jaw-bone in two places. Dr. B. reduced the fracture and bandaged the jaw with his best skill, just in time for Dr. Borrows, who had been sent for, to step in and pronounce the work well done. We have not heard that the law has reached this case yet; but so unjust is it, that if any of its ministers were to interfere, the probability is they would attempt to punish the husband for breaking the jaw, instead of the wife for making so improper a use of it as to give sauce to her own "lord and master." We hold, that when a husband is drunk, a wife ought to take the consequences of her temerity in using rebellious words, which can then be of no use; and, if sober, she can of course have no justification for conduct so outrageous. We fear the world is losing a right appreciation of the powers and responsibilities of husbands!

FATAL ACCIDENT.

On Saturday afternoon last, while the worken were engaged in taking down the walls of Brown's old hotel, a large portion was observed to tremble and totter. The alarm was instantly first received, and the opinion expressed that the Governor would be obliged to call the Legislature together at a special session to repeal it, or the courts would be unable to administer justice or proceed with their business. From every indication, I now entertain no doubt of taken to the Washington Infirmary, where Professor May rendered him all the aid in his power; but Burns died at five o'clock yesterday morning. His head was much lacerated, but the concussion of his brain was no doubt the cause of his death. He was about thirty-three years old, and was not more than a year in this country from Ireland. He was unmarried, and, we believe, without relations in this city.

The funeral of the deceased was numerously. attended to the Roman Catholic burying-ground yesterday afternoon.

ACCIDENT.

Mr. John Evans, of this city, while at work apon a scaffold, on Friday last, fell, and bruised and cut his face, and partially dislocated his shoulder. Before he recovered from the stunning effects of his fall, Doctors Howard, Borrows, and Bogan had been brought to his side, who rendered very promptly the aid required; and Mr. E. is now prepared for further adventures.

AN UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE.

An accident of a somewhat serious character occurred to Mr. John Scrivener, of this city, some ten or twelve days ago. While sitting at the table he swallowed a portion of the bone of a bird he was eating. It gave him then, we believe, great pain and uneasiness, and has since produced serious if not dangerous consequences, as it has probably lacerated the alimentary canal, along its whole course, and even perforated the colon or contiguous parts. He is confined to his bed, and in a critical condition, though favored with the utmost care and attention of Dr. May.

EXTENSIVE LEAD MINE .- The richest lead nines in the Northwest have recently been discovered in a subterranean cave near Dubuque, owa. In the space of six hours 126,665 lbs. of mineral were several hundred feet in length, varying in height and width, and throughout the entire extent the mineral appears in greater or less

ITEMS FOR THE GREAT EXHIBITION .- Mr. Croall, of Edinburgh, has invented a carriage which can be stopped from the inside in case of danger. The Observer somewhat equivocally observes

that "no object produced at the forthcoming exhibition will contain more matter of solid in terest than Mr. Wyld's hollow globe ! ROYAL NAVAL EXHIBITION .- An English paper says: One of the finest and best-equipped fleets that Great Britain ever exhibited will be formed at one of the home ports, most probably at the Nore or Spithead; making a total of nine servation, that the intermarrying of relatives is sail-of-the-line and four first-class frigates, three screw line-of-battle ships and three screw-frigand tends directly to insanity. His opinion is ates, and one paddle-wheel frigate; in all, generally held by all who have investigated the twenty ships, from one thousand to twenty-five hundred tons measurement. Cincinnati Enquirer office: A pair of mittens for the "hands of a clock;" vest for the "waist of a ship;" and a sleeve for the "arm of the sea."

THE COST TO THE VICTORS .- The war with Mexico was far more expensive to the Governexpenses of the military and naval establishments during the five years 1812-16, were $114,856,000; while those during the five years, 1844-49, were $148,699,000.

Those who are honest because it is the best policy, are half-way to being rogues.
